

WHITE HOPES PLACE BOXING IN JEOPARDY

Ring Fatalities Due to General Lack of Skill Among Big Fellows.

KNOW LITTLE OF DEFENCE

Sam Langford vs. Porky Flynn and Palzer vs. Moran Next Battles of Interest.

The accidental killing of Bull Young by Jess Willard at Vernon, Cal., last Friday night, following the fatal ending of the McCarty-Pelley affair at Calgary, Canada, has convinced followers of boxing that a majority of the white heavyweights now before the public lack the requisite amount of cleverness. Without a single exception it may be said that the present crop of white hopes know little or nothing about defensive tactics, while many of them are physically unfit to take part in ring battles.

Looking back over the pages of prize ring history, when heavyweights possessed real cleverness, it is impossible to find a record of fatalities in the cases of leading boxers. Jim Mac, Jake Kilrain, Paddy Ryan, Peter Jackson, John L. Sullivan, Jim Corbett, Tom Sayers, and Jeffries, Tom Sharkey, Joe Choynski, Kid McCoy, Peter Maher and many other big fellows never seriously injured their opponents. Bob Fitzsimmons accidentally killed his sparring partner, Con Roridan, but it was shown that the latter was in poor condition at the time. Fitzsimmons, probably the hardest puncher that ever drew a glove, knocked out numerous rivals, but none was hurt seriously.

McCarty's death was due partly to vanity and overconfidence. He regarded Pelley as harmless and failed to train properly for the bout. As a matter of fact McCarty was a poor boxer for a boxer and had a tissue paper defense. Also a glass jaw. Young, who stopped for all time by Willard, was little more than a fourth rate, with no reputation to speak of outside the State of California. The fact that Willard was able to deliver a fatal blow is evidence that Young had no business in the ring with anybody.

Ring followers who delight in boxing still have no use for the modern heavyweights. They prefer bouts between smaller men for the reason that they provide more interesting encounters and do not place the safety of the mill and its managers in jeopardy. It is believed, however, that boxing will be attacked by the reform element.

This will be the final week of training for Al Palzer and Frank Moran, who meet in a ten round bout at the St. Nicholas Casino, a week from Wednesday night. Palzer has put himself in splendid condition at Woodlawn Inn in Westchester and is eager to whip Moran so that he can demand a match with Gunboat Smith. Palzer weighs 218 pounds at the present time and seems to be in better trim than when he met Bombardier Wells and Luther McCarty. Moran is preparing at Saratoga for the mill and his manager promises that he will be as fit as a fencer on the day of the fight.

Sam Langford will make his first appearance since retiring from Australia in a battle with Porky Flynn in Boston tomorrow night. Langford and Flynn formerly were under the management of Joe Woodman, but Flynn was released some time ago. Because Flynn, after coming back from the Antipodes, made the statement that Langford was a back number, the two men have parted. Langford, who was whipped by Flynn in fourteen rounds at Melbourne a year ago last May.

FAIR MAIDEN ROMPS IN.

Extended by Kippewa in First Heat. She Takes Next Easily.

The light harness races of the Road Drivers Association of New York on the Harlem Speedway yesterday had as their main attraction a contest between a fair maiden and a veteran. Kippewa, a two year old, was brought together by L. V. Hunt's Fair Maiden and C. Fend's baby gelding Kippewa. The former annexed two straight heats, she had a little difficulty taking the initial heat, but the next brush was a canter for the champion. The summaries:
